

As a consumer, I believe it is essential for fair wireless phone competition, to allow consumers to keep their phone numbers when changing companies. The wireless phone companies may claim that service quality will decrease or prices will increase, but that is not true. If people are not happy with the service or prices, they will change companies, especially if they can keep their phone number.